DIRECTOR'S DISCUSSION

Legislative Session 2016

The Legislative Session is over. The 2nd substitute bill 325 passed – USOR will be moved. DWS will be our new umbrella agency. First of all I want to tell everyone that the Sanderson Center will not close, the gym will not be turned into offices for DWS employees – those were rumors! All DSDHH employees will keep their jobs. We will be fine! You will be fine. I was so glad to see many new and older advocates on the hill this year. Those of you who came up to the Capitol or sent emails really made a difference.

Many of the Deaf advocates who were responsible for convincing legislators a community center for Deaf/Hard of Hearing was a need for Utahans, have passed away. If they can look down from above I'm sure they were happy to see younger advocates work effectively together to protect DSDHH, its purpose and services.

The managing agency for USOR was changed during this session from Education to DWS. This change raised many fears and concerns. After strong testimonies from advocates in appropriation committee meeting the disabled communities hopes were dashed when a representative from the Governor's office said that a stand alone agency for USOR under the Governor's Office would not be allowed. Soon a bill was brought forward called, Office of Rehabilitation Amendments, House Bill 325. The sponsors were Representative Norm Thurston and Senator Allen Christensen.

The first version of HB 325 was quite scary. It left out the Interpreter Certification Program and it appeared to get rid of Division Directors and Divisions and consolidate (put together) all of the Divisions of USOR together in one office under Darin Brush.

The Bill was revised twice and the 2nd substitute version of 325 has several added protections for DSDHH and its two centers in Taylorsville and St. George. These protections were added because of UAD advocacy.

Below is the part of the bill that talks about DSDHH. It's always good to know how to read a bill. Only the underline parts of a bill are new words. The other words were already in the law. The parts of the bill that are highlighted with yellow show words and sentences suggested by UAD. UAD board members met with the sponsor several times. They made it clear that they could not support the bill unless the Sanderson Center and its services were protected. The words "hearing impaired" were changed to "deaf or hard of hearing."

815 (1) The [board] executive director shall appoint an advisory 816 council to advise and assist 817 the [office, DSDHH, and, as appropriate, the board] division, the office, and the department in

- 800 matters relating to the needs of and provision of services to individuals ~~[with hearing~~
801 ~~impairments and the activities of DSDHH]~~ who are deaf or hard of hearing.
802 (2) At least ~~[one-third]~~ one-half of the members of the council shall be individuals 803 ~~[with hearing impairments]~~ who are deaf or hard of hearing.

Because of the length and detail of the part of the law explaining Interpreter Certification I have not included this.

Other parts of the bill show that DSDHH funding will be protected and kept separate from the other services of the Department of Workforce Services. USOR as a Division of Office will also be kept separate. This is important. The Department of Workforce Services (DWS) has 27,000 employees. USOR has about 400 employees.

Another good protection that UAD advocate got put into place is a letter written by the bill sponsor asking the State audit committee to review how DSDHH is doing after 1 year of being under the governance of DWS. This should occur after October 2017.

Also, two increased funding requests will be included in the next year's budget. Twenty five thousand to fund increased rent costs for Southern Utah program, and $60,000 one-time money for create new DVD materials for the Interpreter Certification Program.

It was a wild roller coaster ride this session. A BIG

The Legislative Session is over, now what?

Written by Jenefer Reudter

The Legislative Session 2016 is now over what happens now? How many of you actually were able to meet your legislators? I did! I was able to connect with my Senator, Todd Weiler. I made contact with him prior to the beginning of the session and attended one of his holiday open house events he held to meet some of his constituents. It was a good opportunity to meet him before the session began. Once the session began I received weekly email updates from him as part of being on his email list. This allowed me to know his views on issues. I was able to send Senator Weiler emails or texts to let him know how I felt about specific issues. At one point I went to the Capitol to show support for an issue and was able to see Senator Weiler and get a picture with him and post it on Facebook. This is a great way to show that I support the political process.

Now that the Legislative Session is over, what can you do to continue to show your support to your legislators? You can stay in touch with your legislators! You can do this by sending them emails about concerns that you have. You can also support your legislators by helping them with campaigning if they are running again for office or helping them to gain support for their election. Other ways to show support is say "hello" to them at the grocery store, the movie theatre or other places that you may run into them! You always say hi to people you know, so don't forget to say hello to your legislators!

Another great thing to do now that the session is over is to send a "thank you" message to your legislators and to any legislators that you feel deserve thanks. It doesn't take much to send a short message and it will make a legislator's day to be thanked for his/her service!

Now that the Legislative Session is over, let's begin to make connections for the next session!

PROGRAM PROGRESS

by Joene Nicolaisen
Program Director

I wanted to take this opportunity to publicly recognize a few of our community partners who have helped us create programs and services for our community. As the Sanderson Community Center's Program Director, I often see first hand how the center is being used in so many great ways. I, along with my co-workers, have had the wonderful opportunity to work with many various Utah agencies to ensure that the Deaf and Hard of Hearing community members have the same barrier-free experiences as any other Utah residents. A few of these partnerships are listed here. I plan to recognize more throughout the year (there are many more!).

HARD OF HEARING HAPPENINGS

Captions, Subtitles and CART - by Chelle Wyatt

Subtitles are for people who can hear but can't understand the language. Subtitles are used for foreign films and appear at the bottom of the screen only in letters displayed over the movie. Some DVDs offer another category, Subtitles for the SDH (Subtitles for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing) under language or settings. They are subtitles that include sound effects which also appear at the bottom of the screen.

Captions are for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing and can appear anywhere on the screen, sometimes changing places to show who is talking. Captions include sound effects that a Deaf or Hard of Hearing person may not hear such as; door closing, footsteps and lyrics to the song being played in the movie. Closed Captions (CC) are activated by someone and appear in black boxes with white lettering. All televisions since 1993 are required to have caption decoder chips but the different brands have different ways of turning them on. If you have a CC button on the TV remote you toggle captions on and off through that. If you don't that option on the remote control the best place to look is on the TV settings menu, possibly under language or accessibility. Anything that is open captioned means the captions are on. Open captions are not contained in a box; they are displayed over the movie much like subtitles containing sound effects. Every week there are open captioned movies in the Salt Lake City area and you can find a listing on the Sanderson Community Center to the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Facebook page. Movies and times change weekly.

light weight plastic glasses wired to a small battery pack. The captions are displayed in the glasses themselves, superimposed over the movie.

CART is Communication Access Real-time Translation which basically means real time captioning. CART can be used at meetings, in workshops, for lectures and theater events such as Broadway plays. A stenographer translates speech to text with computer software which can be projected onto a screen or viewed from a laptop. Remote CART provides live captioning from another site. A stenographer listens to the meeting (etc.) through an audio source with a microphone such as a laptop or phone who then transmits the captions to a website for people to view projected on a screen, through a laptop, tablet or phone.

Speech to Text services are also available. These can be provided on site or from a remote location as well. They work straight from a laptop using abbreviations which are spelled out on fully through computer software.

theaters are now ADA accessible for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing with headphones, CaptiViews and Sony Caption Glasses. Headphones give people more volume. The CaptiViews are devices that go into the cup holder on the seat with a flexible arm with a caption display. Sony Caption Glasses are Researchers have noticed in the last few years that hearing loss shows up more often than expected in people with depression, with dementia, with some other health issues, or who fall often. The nature of the connection is not clear, but that is where the research is going now. It does not seem to be a direct cause-and-effect relationship, but what is happening? Does treating the hearing loss diminish the correlation? Come to our Hearing Loss Association meeting on April 16, 10 AM to noon, and explore this with us.
